So far, that seems to be the case, but I don't think it is the same, because we'll just have to get it right.

The solution is to use the wrong number of variables.

If you want the answer you want to get it right, you need to change the equation to something that will work as expected.

In this example, I've chosen the equation to be:

$$a = x^2 + y^2 - 2xy = 4x^2 + 4y^2 - 4x + 2y = 6$$

should work because $x^2 = y^2 = 4x$.

You can check the equation by looking at the equations of the two equations.

$$So, a = x^2 + y^2 - 2xy = 4x^2 + 4y^2 - 4x = 6$$
