Is sports betting rigged?

No, sports betting is not rigged, but it is against your favor because of the vi

g.

In order to make money, sports betting companies collect a commission on losing bets, which is called the vig.

Because of that, it may seem like sports betting is rigged, but that's simp ly to insure it's a source of revenue.

While Nevada has been raking in millions of dollars through sports betting, new legislation will allow each start to benefit from sports gambling.

If states are benefitting from sports betting, that means those wagering are lo sing money more often than not.

If you're losing because you think "sports betting is rigged" and can't get out of the game, there are resources to help.
