If the total number of operators reaches 16 by then, the tax rate will drop even lower to 25%.

Included among them were most of the industry's largest players.

This is a much better outcome for bettors than the Cuomo-preferred lottery-run monopoly that was speculated to emerge from the budget negotiations in early 2021.

While finalizing its laws, the state of New York waffled on the use of official league data.

In fact, the state is only home to three Division I Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS) teams:

There is a clear desire in the Georgia state legislature to bring legal gambling, including sports betting, to the Peach State.

This has proven to be the case for this year, as April's legislative session ended without a sports betting bill being passed at all.

However, the FanDuel sportsbook will be unavailable to people inside Georgia's state lines until more expansive legislation passes which legalizes and licenses online sports betting.

There is hope that this will be achieved in 2022.

The current legislative session ended on 4th April, with it proving to be bad news for those that hoped to see a sports betting bill passed.

Both SR 135 and SB 142 failed to make it to the house floor, something that means
