"This is truly a bipartisan accomplishment," Cooper said.

This is a bill that we believe makes sports betting safer, there'll be oversight, there'll be regulations, and certainly there'll be help for those that may have a gambling problem," said Fred Whitfield, president and vice chairman for the Charlotte Hornets.

"Sports betting bills are being signed across the country.

"We're going to have to wait and see exactly what's going to be allowed and what's going to be permitted in terms of on-site sports books, in terms of sports betting," Walter explained.

And now, there's portions of an event, a sporting event, whether it be a race, basketball game or football game, that you want to see how that finishes," Walter said, referencing the existing popularity of NFL Super Bowl and NCAA March Madness office pools and brackets.
